

I was born at Hoag Hospital in 1968. I have lived in Newport Beach and Costa Mesa for 50 years. My husband was extremely mentally ill and was an addict. I well understand the situation. The only true help my husband received for his addictions, was from old school 12 step programs. There are wonderful AA groups and housing in Costa Mesa that are run by committees which are rotated every few months. Check out [REDACTED]. They do amazing work and do it quietly by donations, not scamming insurance companies or families.

This model should be supported, not the business for profit one.

Again, please support Dana's bill.

CELEBRATING THE 60TH ANNIVERSARY OF WRWH RADIO

HON. DOUG COLLINS

OF GEORGIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 23, 2018

Mr. COLLINS of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the 60th Anniversary of WRWH Radio, in Cleveland, Georgia.

WRWH Radio began operating as an AM radio station in 1958 and its call letters were derived from White, Rabun, and Habersham counties, which it serves. Over thirty years ago the station was purchased by Dean and Bonnie Dwyer. Since then, WRWH has evolved from operating out of an old Quonset hut on the southern edge of Cleveland, to a state of the art studio on Hood Street.

Today, WRWH broadcasts news talk on 93.9 FM. The station also provides learning opportunities for college and high school students.

In its 60 years, WRWH has become a leader in covering White County's local news and was one of WDUN's original news partners when AccessWDUN.com launched. That partnership continues today.

I join WRWH as they celebrate their 60th anniversary and commend this North Georgia business that continues to thrive.

RAISING AWARENESS OF NATIONAL DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT AWARENESS MONTH

HON. SHEILA JACKSON LEE

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 23, 2018

Ms. JACKSON LEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize October as National Disability Employment Awareness Month.

This month is an opportunity to raise awareness about disability employment issues, educate the public about the value of a workforce inclusive of their skills and talents, and celebrate the contributions of workers with disabilities.

National Disability Employment Awareness Month dates to 1945, when Congress enacted a law declaring the first week in October each year "National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week."

In 1988, Congress expanded the week to a month and changed the name to "National Disability Employment Awareness Month."

As of September 2018, 21.4 percent of the U.S. labor force 16 years old and above have a disability.

My home state of Texas has the second largest number of individuals with disabilities in the United States.

In 2014, Texas had almost 820,564 individuals (6.2 percent) of the total civilian labor force 16 and older in Texas (13,220,312 individuals) had a disability.

Although not every person living with disabilities can work, it is imperative that we create opportunities for those who are able and desire to work.

For Kayla McKoen, her job is more than just a hobby.

As the first registered lobbyist with down syndrome in history, Kayla McKoen shares her passion for advocacy by representing the differently abled community on Capitol Hill and lobbying for equal rights for those who are differently abled.

Kayla says that "It feels so important to advocate for others because they might not have that voice themselves, and the more we advocate our message, the louder we are. I hope I am helping to change things for future generations of the Differently Abled community."

Individuals with disabilities can strengthen the current and future economy and are a valuable resource for employers.

The workforce system must ensure that employers have access to every potential skilled worker.

Workplaces welcoming of the talents of all people, including those who are differently abled, are a critical part of our efforts to build an inclusive community and a strong economy.

Smart employers know that including different perspectives in problem-solving situations leads to better solutions.

Hiring employees with diverse abilities strengthens their business, increases competition and drives innovation.

Individuals with disabilities enhance workforce diversity and offer employers the skills, knowledge, and experience that Texas businesses need to thrive.

Private and public-sector workplaces that support integrated employment opportunities, as well as greater use of assistive technologies in the workplace, can provide individuals with disabilities the opportunity to gain and maintain employment.

We must commit to providing support for those living with disabilities by further educating ourselves and our communities on disability employment to foster a more inclusive workforce.

As we observe National Disability Employment Awareness Month, let us pay tribute to all who fought for better laws, demanded better treatment, and overcame ignorance and indifference to make our Nation more perfect.

In their honor, and for the betterment of generations of Americans to come, let us continue the work of removing obstacles to employment so every American has the chance to develop their skills and make their unique mark on the world we share.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognition of National Disability Employment Awareness Month and ask all Americans to take time this month to find out what you can do to encourage the employment of those with disabilities and empower all of America's workforce.

MARINE CORPS SERGEANT ERIC
MORANTE

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 23, 2018

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, 1 in 10 Americans join the military and I am proud to say that the state of Texas consistently meets their quarterly quotas. Texans are raised with a sense of patriotism and civic duty, which is reflected by the number of enlisted members in the military. As of September 2017, Texas had 164,234 members on active duty or reserves, placing Texas as the 2nd state with the largest population serving in the armed forces.

From an early age Texans are taught southern hospitality, religion, and love for their country. This is especially true for Marine Corps Sergeant Eric Morante, who recalls wanting to be a US Marine since he was 8 years old. In 2003, weeks after graduating from high school, Eric stepped foot in San Diego, California to complete the Marine Corp boot camp. As an 0311-Infantryman, he was given orders to the 2nd battalion, 7th Marines in Twenty-nine Palms, California. Weeks after reporting for duty, his unit deployed to Iraq. Eric would be assigned to a fire-team that cleared houses in Fallujah. On his first deployment, Eric was conducting raids, patrolling and identifying high value targets, all at the age of 18. Eric completed his first 7-month tour and returned safely to American soil for 6 months before being re-deployed to Iraq on July 4, 2005.

Eric's second deployment was a little different than the first. Days before their scheduled return, the 2nd battalion, 7th Marines, lost 10 men and had 11 injuries from a single explosion caused by a pressure plate IED on the west side of Fallujah. After two "desert" deployments and the loss of several comrades, Eric Morante honorably completed his first enlistment. But this proud Texan was not done serving his country or his beloved US Marine Corps. In 2006, he raised his right hand, and for a second time, he swore to defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic. As he prepared for his new drill-instructor role, he learned that the 2/7 was being re-deployed for another tour. Eric deferred his new orders as a drill-instructor to accompany the men that had become his family, to the Middle-East. The loss of his friends weighed heavy on his heart and he was not prepared to lose more.

On April 20th of 2007, four months into this third Iraq deployment, Eric stood watch with 6 Marines and a Navy Corps man, over bridge 286 that overlooks 6 lanes over a major highway that runs through Iraq. On that day, their lives were forever changed. A dump truck carrying 3,000 lbs. of explosives detonated just 15 feet away from the bridge. Waking up covered in large remnants of concrete, Eric recalls sitting up and spitting up blood. His left arm twisted and dislocated and his right leg in an un-natural L-shape.

Despite the complete state of shock, the constant ringing in the ears, and the faint voices, Eric managed to account for his men. Miraculously, no men were killed in the explosion, and the 6 of the 8 men that were seriously injured were medevacked.

Unable to save Eric's severely injured right leg, the doctors of Bethesda Naval Hospital amputated above the knee. Pins were used to repair his left hand, surgery to reconstruct his face was conducted and once again, Eric would have to learn how to walk. Recuperating at the Brooks Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas, he found himself going through a period of depression and began to isolate himself from his loved ones. At one point, was taking 16 prescribed medications to help cope with his PTSD.

In 2009, Eric welcomed his first and only son, which gave him purpose and a new perspective in life. His new role as a father allowed him to once again be the Eric he once was; a leader with grit, respect, and desire to help others. Since the explosion, Eric has completed triathlons, 5Ks, and sprints. He also became the first Marine amputee to be sanctioned for boxing in the United States and remained undefeated for 5 full years. He boxes at fundraising matches that benefit veteran organizations, and has created a name for himself in the veteran community. He continuously advocates and helps others that struggle with PTSD and visits military hospitals in an effort to guide amputees through the prosthetics process.

Mr. Speaker, President Ronald Reagan once said "some people spend an entire lifetime wondering if they made a difference. But the Marines don't have that problem". The great state of Texas commends Eric for his service, courage and resiliency. Semper Fi Marine.

And that's just the way it is.
